Bayada Nurses Opens Private Duty Office in Williamsburg

Williamsburg, VA – October 6, 2009 – Bayada Nurses, a national leader in home health care, has opened a new private duty office in Williamsburg. The state-licensed office, managed by director Jacqueline Edwards, RN, will provide personal care and support services to clients in Williamsburg and the Peninsula.

“We’re excited to expand Bayada’s high quality home health care services in the Williamsburg area,” said Edwards. “The new office will focus on personal care and support services delivered by certified nursing assistants and home health aides who are committed to Bayada Nurses’ core values of compassion, excellence, and reliability.”

With the addition of the new private duty office, located at 263 McLaws Circle, Bayada now provides residents in the area with a full array of home health care services. Bayada’s Medicare-certified office, at 7151 Richmond Road in Williamsburg, provides skilled nursing and therapy services. The private duty office accepts private pay and most insurances, and referrals are accepted 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Bayada Nurses is accredited by the Community Health Accreditation Program, a leader in home care accreditation.
